A Monthly Fund Update from JM Financial Mutual Fund

Details as on January 30, 2009

Market Update - Equity

ECONOMY

The global financial crisis continued to affect sentiment in key markets across the world. As a policy response to the situation, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) expectedly stressed a soft policy stance in its monetary policy towards the end of the month. RBI left the key policy rates unchanged in line with expectations. However, it is expected that the RBI will reduce policy rates in its April policy statement. The RBI did not, contrary to market expectations, cut CRR 50bp to fund additional government borrowing, although it shared the growing fiscal concerns. The central bank has, however, extended sectors specific refinance facilities from June to September. More importantly, the central bank finally cut the FY09 real GDP growth estimates to ~7% (from 7.5-8% earlier) and inflation estimates to ~3% (from 7% earlier). This reflects the current expectations and the state of the economy which is estimated to slowdown in FY10. The data on sectoral deployment of credit suggests that the recent credit spike essentially reflects oil loans (up 8-fold to US$9bn) to pay off oil trade credit. The collapse in small enterprise credit to 7.4% in December 08 from 35.6% last year is hardly surprising though the steep fall was not expected. This clearly reflects the extent of downturn in the economy and a strong case for cuts in key policy rates. Headline WPI inflation at 5.6% for the Jan 17 week, came in higher than consensus. This, however, essentially reflected a jump in fruits & vegetables prices arising from the 8-day truckers' strike that had not reversed. The government also announced cut in fuel prices (Rs5/l for petrol, Rs2/l for diesel and Rs25/l for liquefied petroleum) in line with the reduction in global crude prices. The latest oil price cut reduces inflation by ~70bp directly (and 110bp overall) paving the way for lower interest rates in future. It is believed that inflation would soften to below 3% by April '09.

STOCK MARKET

The month of January continued to be volatile in line with the rest of the markets across the world. Key indices lost 2.9% (Nifty) and 2.3% (Sensex) of their value during the month. Almost all the sectors witnessed fall in value; however the Realty sector was affected more as it fell by over 27%. In January, India witnessed net selling by FIIs amounting to US$845mn and by domestic institutions to the tune of US$280mn. Volatility in the markets today is driven by various factors at play. There is the slowing global economy and the stress in the financial sector globally which has led to a squeeze on liquidity and credit flow. The 3Q earnings season was a disappointing one, with aggregate earnings decline of over 16% yoy, exceeding street estimates by a wide margin. The fall in earnings is more pronounced as it comes on higher-than-expected sales growth of 10%. Ebitda margins declined by a staggering 500 bps, as almost every cost element rose more than proportionately. Net earnings were further negatively impacted due to the near doubling of interest costs as % of Ebitda. The earnings quarter have been impacted by sharply falling oil and metal prices, forex losses, and macro/funding volatility (globally). Banks (bond gains, and questions on quality), utilities and Pharma have done better than expected; but it's a long tail of disappointments led by Capital goods, Real estate, Metals, Auto and energy. The benefits from decline in input costs and potentially slower rise in interest costs (as working capital shrinks and lower rates filter in) will help in the coming quarters, but operating leverage will continue to weigh down earnings as topline slows.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The decline in stock values have been unprecedented in the past few months—something we might not see for a long time to come. The volatility has reduced incrementally and we believe stability will return to markets over the next few quarters. As a strategy, we shifted our portfolio to companies with strong cash flows and those that do not need to raise capital in the immediate future for their growth. The companies in our portfolios are still growing strongly and we believe will outperform the markets as the situation stabilizes. However, the economy is likely to face a tough time over the next six months and we propose to be vigilant in analyzing our portfolio companies and reacting to the evolving situations more proactively. We are extremely bullish on the prospects of the Indian economy as well as the markets over the next few years. The big bull market in India is yet to unfold and will be seen over the next 10 to 15 years. India will directly benefit due to lower cost of commodity imports, an improving trade balance and the most unique part of this crisis, which is that India will be among one of the only large economies where the government's fiscal situation is actually improving due to the crisis. We would advise investors to be patient and ride out this tough phase where we have underperformed broadly over the last nine months. It will be our constant endeavor to outperform going forward. We are very optimistic that with our fund management and research skill set, we will be able to live up to investor expectations going forward and will try to bounce back strongly.

Market Update - Derivatives

The indices started the New Year 2009 on a negative note losing around 3% in the month of January with Satyam Computer Services Ltd. being the largest loser. With the decrease in volatility in the last 3 months, the cost-of-carry had also been under pressure. The Cost of Carry narrowed down considerably with a fall in the indices in the month of January. The fund unwinded many stock futures at a discount to their cash market prices, booking profits early in the month. The rollover spread from January to February series was low due to excess short rollers in the market. The fund deployed in to Nifty basket arbitrage on dividend expectation in few of the Nifty stocks and also to take advantage of the premium/discount volatility.

* Data Reported as on month-end, Source RBI, W55 & Bloomberg.

Government bond yields were volatile during the month on back of opposing factors like supply concerns versus monetary easing by RBI, slowdown concerns, and sharp dip in WPI inflation and continued easing of global interest rates. The 10 year benchmark yield fell sharply to breach 5% briefly, early in the month, but closed at 6.17%, higher by around 100 basis points as compared to 5.25% in the previous month. RBI reduced repo rate by 100 basis points from 6.5% to 5.5%, reverse repo from 5% to 4% and CRR by 50 bps from 5.5% to 5%. The Government of India announced additional borrowing of 25,000 crores in addition to 45,000 crores announced in December, for the second half of the financial year. WPI inflation continued to ease at a pace which has prompted debate about a possible deflation setting in around mid of 2009, which fueled hopes of more monetary easing by the RBI. The sharp fall in international crude oil prices led the government to deliver a second cut in domestic fuel prices. International crude oil prices continue to hover around $40/per barrel mark, lowest in the last 3 years, amid speculation of aggressive cuts by OPEC.

OIS rates remained range bound as well. The benchmark 1-year OIS had breached 4% briefly and continues to trade close to 4%. 5-year OIS rate also touched a low of 4.56% in anticipation of sharp cuts in the policy rates, but closed the month higher at 4.91% compared to December close of 4.62%.

Factor: Inflation

Short Term: Positive

Medium Term: Positive

The domestic inflation number continues the secular decline on the back of reduction in commodity prices, duty cuts and fuel rate reduction. Headline inflation at the start of the month was at 5.24% as against the market expectation of 5.60%. Headline inflation number inched up in early part of the month owing to disruption in supplies due to truckers strike, but the secular direction of inflation easing continues. Primary index has risen slightly to 249.1 from 247.5 during the month and manufactured products index also rose from 200.8 to 201.8 during the month. Going forward it is expected headline inflation will continue to moderate from the present levels on easing global commodity prices and base effect. Headline inflation for the month of February 09 is expected to be in the range of 4.00-5.00%. We expect WPI inflation to continue to moderate significantly from the present levels and is likely to under 3% by March 09.

Factor: Liquidity

Short Term: Positive

Medium Term: Positive

Domestic liquidity situation improved sharply as against the previous month on back of monetary easing by RBI and steps taken by the government of India to ease the domestic liquidity situation. The 100 basis points reduction in SLR and a cumulative 400 basis points reduction in CRR in January, buyback of MS5 and other measures together added primary liquidity of about Rs. 3,00,000 crores in to the system. Easy liquidity conditions were evident as RBI received average bids of Rs. 40000 crores during the month in the daily reverse repo auction. Inter bank call rates & CBLO rates have consistently remained within the LAF corridor and have been aligning themselves with the reverse repo rate. Yields on money market assets yields also eased by around 100-125 basis points on easy liquidity conditions. Going forward in the month of February 2009 it is expected that the domestic liquidity situation will remain comfortable.

Factor: Global interest rates

Short Term: Negative

Medium Term: Positive

The global interest rate scenario continued to remain positive on back of aggressive monetary actions taken by central banks across the globe. Government bond yields have risen during the month despite recessionary fears as market is turning optimistic with Obama wave. US 10 year has risen from 2.21% to 2.84% as market expects economy to better on back of fiscal and monetary packages being planned by the new Obama administration in US. Similarly benchmark yield on government bonds rose by around 10-50 basis points in all developed countries. Monetary easing continued as Bank of England, Indonesia, Taiwan, Korea and Philippines eased key rates by another 50 basis points, while Malaysia reduced rates by 75 bps. The global interest rate easing cycle expected to continue as central banks are prepared to take actions in view of the global financial crunch.

Factor: Forex

Short Term: Negative

Medium Term: Negative

India's Forex reserves stood at a $ 238 billion as on 23rd January. INR ended slightly lower by 0.62% on back of uncertain performance of equities. INR ended at 48.98 vis a vis the USD as against the previous close of 48.68. Going forward, we expect the INR to trade weak in range with lower bias on account of capital outflows, uncertainty in the global markets and slowdown concerns. RBI will continue to intervene at lower levels.

OUTLOOK

RBI's focus has shifted towards growth, credit flow and liquidity management in light of the global developments and in a bid to protect the domestic financial markets from the seizure seen in the global credit markets in last few months. The recent statements from the finance ministry and RBI indicate that such expansionary policy would continue to rule the roost until the turmoil in the global market settles down and faith in the robustness of the financial system returns. Given the current economic scenario it is believed that RBI will continue to adopt an accommodative monetary policy and will continue to ease policy rates to stimulate growth. A major concern here remains on the supply side and it is expected that the government borrowing program will increase to fund the fiscal stimulus programs being announced. RBI's bias towards soft interest rates, easing global rates, receding inflation and supply side factor will remain the key factors for the market in the month of February -2009. It is expected that the 10 year benchmark yield will remain in the range of 5.25-5.75% in the month of February 2009. Domestic liquidity situation expected to remain comfortable. Money market asset yields are expected to trade in a range on easy liquidity conditions. It is expected that 5 year AAA corporate bonds-G5ec spreads will range between 250-300 basis points.
